Forged vs. Stamped

There are many choices in professional cutlery. Choose the best option for your needs.

Forged

One complete piece of steel, from the tip of the blade to the end of the handle.

Forged knives are made from a single piece of steel. The metal is heated to a high temperature, rearranging its molecular structure which provides excellent strength. This results in a cutting edge that stays sharper longer and is easier to maintain.

Forged knives have a bolster, the center support piece between the blade and the handle. This adds weight and balance to the knife and protection for your fingers. Forged knives also feature a full tang, the portion of the metal enclosed by the handle.

Stamped

Machine cut from one large strip of steel.

A die is loaded into a press to cut the knife shape from the steel blank. The blade is tempered, sharpened, and finished. This manufacturing process makes the knives more cost effective to produce. Stamped knives are usually thinner and lighter, offering an economic alternative to traditional forged cutlery.

Given their lighter characteristics, more downward force may be required compared to heavier forged blades. Because of their thinner profile, blades may also require regular maintenance more often than forged cutlery.

Knife Metals

Steel is the heart of the blade. The choice of blade materials is a huge component of knife performance. Heat treatment, blade geometry, edge grinding, and handle design also contribute to performance.

In deciding on the right knife, consider the following blade attributes:

- > Strength – hardness/ability to take a load without permanently deforming.
- > Wear Resistance – ability to withstand surface abrasions.
- > Edge Holding – ability of a blade to hold an edge.

Blades contain a variety of elements which contribute to the above attributes:

- > Carbon – all steel contains carbon, which adds hardness to the blade. The more carbon, the harder the blade.
- > Chromium – adds hardness, but also allows the knife to hold an edge and contributes to rust-resistance.
- > Vanadium – allows a knife to retain an extra-sharp edge.
- > Molybdenum – contributes strength and wear-resistance.
- > Manganese – contributes strength and wear-resistance.

Color Coding = Food Safety

According to the CDC, one in six Americans is affected by a food illness each year. 48 million become ill and 128,000 people are hospitalized annually. With these numbers continuing to rise, operators need to address these issues in order to assure customers that food is being handled safely, with a process that minimizes risk.

One of the most common ways bacterial contamination occurs is through cross-contamination, or the transfer of harmful bacteria from one food product to another by way of kitchen tools that have not been cleaned properly. Many professional kitchens color code tools that are used for different foods to prevent cross contamination using the HACCP system.

Mercer Culinary® has seen these growing food illness and allergy trends and recognized the impact on the foodservice industry. This led to the design and development of Millennia Colors®. The HACCP compliant, color-coded handles offer an easy way to identify and implement systems to safely prep, cook, and serve food.

Benefits utilizing Millennia Colors® as part of a HACCP color coding system:

- > Fewer food handling errors
- > Eliminates any language barrier
- > Makes training staff easier
- > Creates an efficient and safe kitchen
- > Shows a commitment to food safety to both customers and inspectors

TURNNERS & SERVERS

Quality equipment is super important. Especially when you're working outdoors and you're storing your equipment out in the elements. With dull knives, you're going to tear up your meat before you even get to the cooking process. Subpar equipment just makes the whole process harder and more frustrating."

Steps for a Perfect Fit

1. Stand up straight with arms hanging straight by sides.
2. Breathe normal. Wrap measuring tape under armpits around largest part of chest.

3. In the back, wrap tape measure across shoulder blades.
4. Tape measure should be snug, not tight.

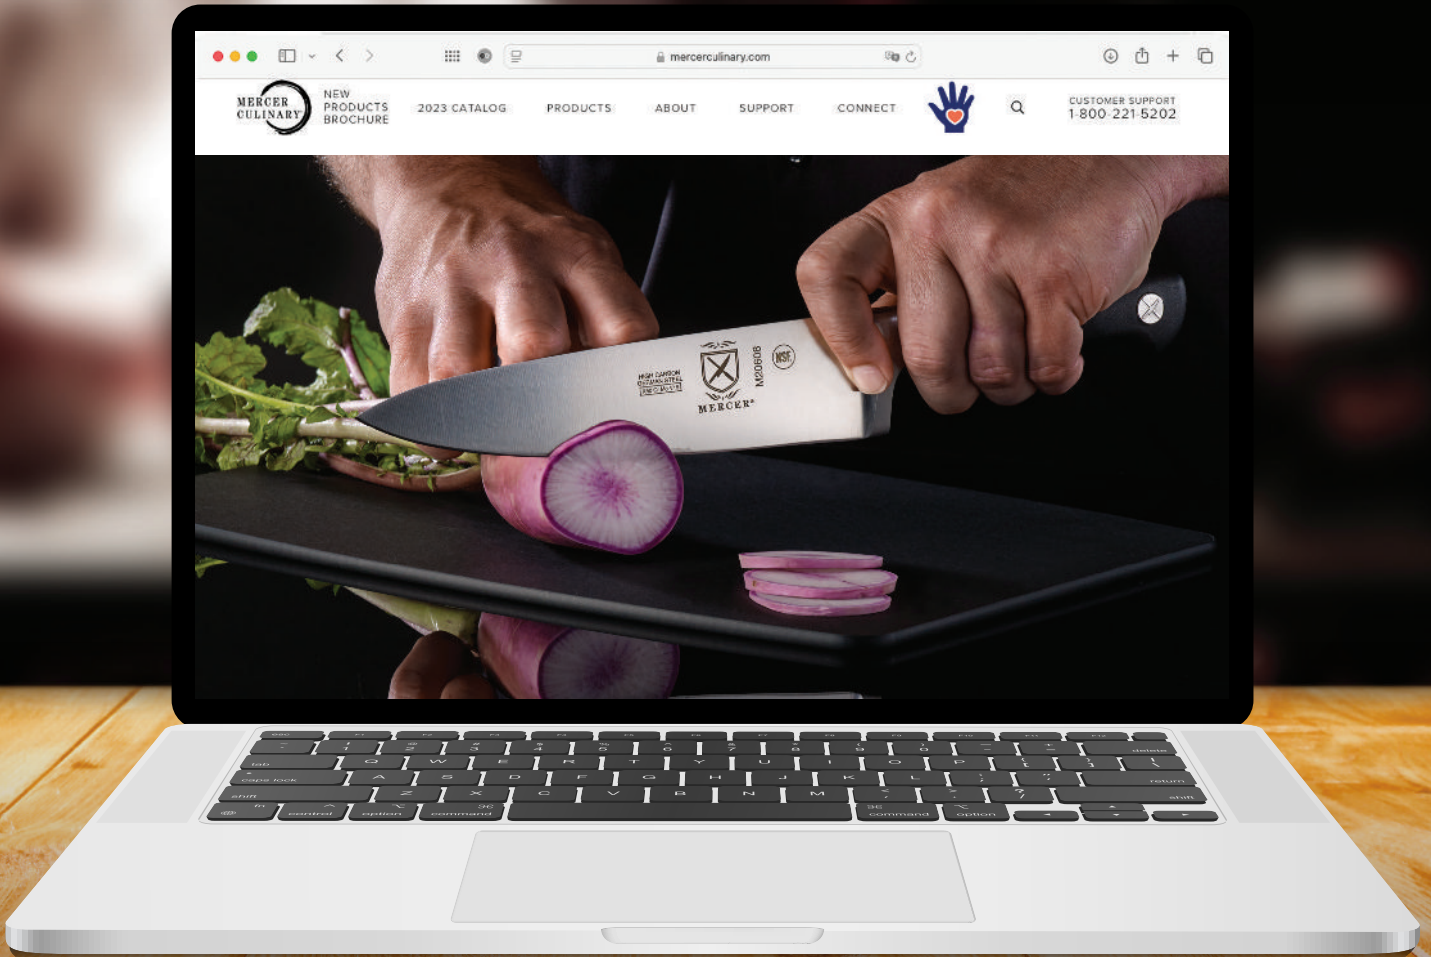

5. Keep measuring tape parallel to the ground.
6. Add an inch to measurement if a looser fit is desired.
